TO
Reverend
H. B. Blakely,

Our beloved and respected President, whose untiring and unselfish efforts have in a large measure made the success of the institution a possibility, we affectionately dedicate the first edition of our Annual.

DEDICATION

REV. H. B. BLAKELY

F o r e w o r d

WE cannot forever stand upon the threshold of life and look into a glorious future. Youth and preparation must cross the bridge into maturity and activity. That this book shall be a record of those preparatory days---of the pleasures, triumphs and defeats which make up college life, is our ambition. If in future years we may look through these pages and live again the days of our youth, feel again the sorrows, joys, and ambitions our work shall not have been in vain. It is our sincerest wish that the record herein contained may not only be a source of infinite pleasure but as an everlasting monument to the first class of Bryson College.

"Him nature giveth for defense his formidable innocence."

Mississippi may indeed look forward to the future of her representative here. "Tiny" entered Bryson when the College first opened. He was soon recognized as a natural leader and the stand he has taken in Society and Y. M. C. A. work has proven his loyalty. Seeing the need of the College he joined the football squad in his Senior Year. He has won honors in Inter-society contests and in him the Wilsonian Society will lose one of her most efficient members. "Tiny" fails however to see why anyone with a normal mind should waste his time on mathematics.

MARY EASDALE, A.B.
Coulterville, Illinois.

"In whose cheek the rose leaf bluseth."

Mary came to us from Illinois in the fall of '19 and has made a college record of which any one could well boast. She is always willing to do her part in any kind of work and is especially noted for her promptness. When examinations come and everybody is weighed in the balances, Mary is never found wanting. She has not only shown great talent in the literary lines but has won honors for her school in basket ball. Judging the future from her past record we predict that Mary will be ready and waiting when opportunity knocks at her door.

WILLIAM OLIVER FAULKNER, A. B.

Atoka, Tennessee.

"Someone said he was quiet,
O! What a mistake."

Women have had the reputation of talking most and having the last word, but that was before Oliver's day. When the members of the class of '22 would have become discouraged it was found to be impossible with him in our number. He always has a friendly word for everybody. He has entered into every phase of College activities and the Glee Club, Society and Y. M. C. A. have been brightened by his presence. He is an all around athlete but his class work has not been neglected and we feel sure that his energetic nature will some day bring him success.

HENRY ERNEST MOORE, A. B.

Brighton, Tennessee.

"Never dreamed, tho' right were worsted, wrong would triumph."

"How comparatively limitless the possibilities that lie hidden in the humblest of cradles." Thus "Gus" Moore answered his Divine Call and came here to prepare for the ministry. He will be missed by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. P. C. U. on account of his inspiring talks and his willingness to help even when called upon at the eleventh hour. He has shown his talent as a poet and has benefitted his society by deep and thoughtful productions. As "Gus" never finds it necessary to worry about the present we feel that we need not worry about his success in the future.

MARIE ELIZABETH MOOSE. B. S.
Brighton, Tennessee.

"A violet by a mossy stone, half hidden from the eye."

After finishing a Science course at Byars-Hall High School, Covington, Tenn., and having been a student at West Tennessee State Normal, Marie joined our ranks as a Senior. The missing link of our class was then supplied. Since she has been with us she has upheld the old motto: "Don't put off till tomorrow what you can do today." Domestic Science has been her major and in that work none can excel her. Marie has been one of the leaders in her Society, having had some valuable training at Normal. She is now taking great interest in Y. W. C. A. work which may prove beneficial to her when her science teaching has passed.

GRACE LEVISA ORR, A.B.
Belfast, Tennessee.

"She dares to be generous, dauntless and gay."

"A merry heart doeth good like a medicine," has been exemplified by Grace. She came to us from Belfast Preparatory School via University of Tennessee. Her sincere friendliness and happy disposition have made her a favorite with everyone. She is a most conscientious student and the Senior Class is proud of her record as a "four-square" college girl. Her valuable suggestions and ideas have helped make the Y. W. C. A. and the Wilsonian Literary Society interesting. She will be universally missed after she has gone from Bryson.

"True wit is nature to advantage dressed;
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed."

The Senior Class claims the distinction of having an ex-service man in her ranks. After several months service overseas Edd returned to take up his college work with the Class of '22. For an all round athlete he ranks among the best. When in need of a captain for baseball, basketball or football we have always looked to Edd. His leadership has not been limited to athletics for he has often upheld the reputation of our number by his originality in the class room. As this is Edd's strong characteristic we predict that no obstacle will thwart his success in the future.

ROY DALE STRONG, B.S.
Brighton, Tennessee.

"The reason firm, the temperate will,
Endurance, foresight, strength and skill."

Salem boys have always taken high rank as college students and Roy Dale has not lowered this standard. He is an all round College man. As a student his marks are among the highest in the class, he is an athlete of no mean ability, and an orator of unexcelled eloquence. He is a faithful and efficient member of the Y.M.C.A. He is quite a ladies man and Friday night at the Spratt home isn't Friday night without Roy Dale.

LAWRENCE JOHNSON WILEY, B. S.
Fayetteville, Tennessee.

"Just being happy is brave work and true."

It has always been said that only fat people are good natured but Lawrence is one slender man who is in a good humor all the time. His business ability has been demonstrated by his masterly management of the advertising matter of "The Bridge". Although no great athlete Lawrence always has plenty of "pep" and is ever ready to encourage the players. He has worked faithfully in his studies, in the Y. M. C. A. work and in his Society work. In the latter he has won honors. His good looks have made him quite a favorite with the ladies and his winning personality has made him popular with the boys.

Senior Class History

THE class of '22 had the honor of starting with the College. As a river is formed so was the class gathered from the North, South, East and West. Coming from so many sources this class has realized many of its highest expectations in the variety of its achievements.

As a class we first wish to express our gratitude to the President of the Board of Trustees, Rev. J. R. Edwards for his untiring efforts in our behalf. By making this college possible through his faithful and continuous service he has been a blessing to us. As the college pastor he has inspired us to higher ideals and encouraged us in every day Christian living.

Having the honor of beginning with the College we escaped the customary trials and tribulations of the Freshman Class. Beginning with twelve members we have tried to scale the mountain of success and although some of our members have dropped out, others have joined our ranks.

The class of '22 has been represented in every phase of College activities. In athletics, some of the stars of the school have been numbered in our ranks. We have four from our number who proudly wear block "B". Some of the talent of our class will be greatly missed in the Glee Club. We also have the honor of claiming a minister in our ranks.

The Victorian and Wilsonian Literary Societies can each boast of the records the class of '22 has made. In oratorial contests, debates and other forms of society activities we have had our share of representatives.

Our aspirations have been to leave a record that will be a pattern for those who are to follow. As the class of '22 we realize the rare privilege that has been ours of being the first to graduate from this College. We are proud of the position we have held in the school that has made such wonderful progress in so short a time and that has so many possibilities for the future. As its first graduating class we leave as our parting gift this the first volume of "The Bridge".

Senior Class Prophecy

IT WAS in the spring of the year. One of those warm, sunshiny days when one feels the call of the out-of-doors. Starting down into the country I strolled out upon the Bridge and gazed down into the water. At first I saw only my reflection in the still water but as I looked into its depths my thoughts went far into the future. A vision of the future opened before me and I immediately saw one of the members of the class of '22 sitting under the boughs of an apple tree. He was meditating on a text for a sermon, when disturbed by my approach. I asked him how he had spent his life since leaving Bryson. He told me that he had gone to the Seminary and then had begun preaching in a large church in Brighton. I asked him about his wife supposing he had married a class-mate but to my surprise he told me that his wife was from Canada and that Marie was teaching in Bryson College, to which she had returned after taking a degree at Columbia University. She was making a success in Bryson and was highly honored and respected by all the students.

After talking to Ernest the scene changed and I was in New York in a large hospital. There I saw Edd Pigg, now a surgeon. He had made wonderful discoveries along medical lines which aided very much in certain surgical operations. Among many of the helpful discoveries he had found a cure for cancer for which he received a large award, the greater part of which went as an endowment fund for Bryson College.

As the scene faded before my eyes another appeared and I glanced into a magnificent church. The sight attracted my attention and entering I listened to a sermon by a missionary who had just returned from India. He told of the wonderful experiences he had during his fifteen years work in that country. His wife was with him and when I went to speak to him I was shocked with surprise when he said, "Hello Mary." Of course that excited my curiosity and you can imagine my surprise when I found that he was Roy Dale Strong and his wife was one of my class mates, formerly Grace Orr. Grace had a stately air which had not at all been revealed during her years in College.

I next found myself in a Spanish settlement in South America where I met the manager of Foreign Affairs. He was good-natured and although many things came up to cause trouble everything was settled peaceably. Of course I recognized Oliver Faulkner who was the talker at Bryson.

The next place I visited was a large store in a Southern City. The office manager was a dignified gentleman, well fitted for the position as he was always so business-like in his college days. This man was our class-mate Percy Dyer.

Next, who should I see but Lawrence Wiley? He had been in conference with the manager over certain legal matters. When I asked about his work he reported that he had taken up the practice of law and had made a success as the world counts a success, and he had been far more successful in making friends on account of the fair and square way in which he conducted his profession.

As to the fate of the writer there was too dim a vision to be clearly seen, though I looked a long time. Suddenly I heard a knocking and Mrs. McCowan said, "Mary 'tis time to retire for I have turned the lights out upstairs." Then it was, that I realized that I had fallen asleep and dreamed the future of our class.

Senior Class Poem

THE BRIDGE

Between the town and the foot-hills,
Reaching across the river, while through
Its pillars quiet waters steal
Stands unshaken the old stone bridge.
A growth of willows and elders surround
Its butment, sunk in the river's bed
Where the brushwood that grows so green
Leans over with woven tangles of vine.

Beyond slope fields, verdant and covered
With the tender grain of the coming harvest,
Upward to where the hills are topped
By the distant trees and a purple haze;
To the tips of the low lying mountains,
They seem to lead from the old stone bridge,
Beckoning onward across the ridge
Until from view they disappear.

Why has it stood so many years
Bearing the heavy loads that cross,
While beneath it the river flows
On its way to the restless sea?
It was years ago when the builders came
And doing their best they passed away,
But they builded so well that their work still stands
An example to those who daily pass.

So now we journey across the bridge
To the fields beyond where lies our work;
And we carry the vision of work well done
And show by our lives that the lesson is learned.
Then let us build for the ones who come,
Placing each stone with skill and care,
Trusting that He who views our work
Will say "Well done" at the close of our day.

H. E. M.

Senior Class Will

State of Tennessee,
County of Lincoln.

Realizing the terrible uncertainty of professor's minds and the terrible certainty of final exams, we desire to make this our last will and testament, so that any goods and valuables that we may "pass out" seized and possessed of may be properly disposed of.

As a class we desire that Prof. Halliday be the executor of this will, for he has almost executed us several times in Astronomy and we know that he will make a good executor any where.

FIRST: As a class we desire to leave a word of sympathy for the bereaved and sorely stricken faculty. We assure them that after our departure hence, we will diligently strive to forget everything we have absorbed during our sojourn here. We feel that in an intellectual way our place here can never be taken but we commit to their consideration the Junior class, hoping that they may find a ray of comfort here.

SECOND: As individuals we desire that the following disposition be made of our personal property:

I, Henry Ernest Moore, having no property, bequeath to some Junior my proficiency as a chemist and may the Fates (?) be kinder to this Junior than they have been to me.

I, Mary Easdale give and bequeath to Dave Tinkler, all my old accounts and debts. I have eight cents (8c) due me from various sources for kodak negatives, and if he can collect this he may use it as he sees fit. I urge however that this be used as a refreshment fund for next year's annual staff.

I, John Percy Dyer, in commemoration of the many pleasant hours spent on all parts of the campus looking for golf balls, do reluctantly give to Dean Strong and Miss Buchanan my set of rickety golf clubs. In future years I hope that these clubs may be an example of useless effort and wasted energy.

I, Lawrence Johnson Wiley, realizing that after being advertising manager of "The Bridge" have very few friends left, leave as a parting gift, the hope that next year all advertisers will flock to the advertising manager with their check books in their hands. So may it be.

I, William Edmund Pigg do hereby give and transfer all my skeleton keys, electrical apparatus, bombs and general disturbing machines to the Freshman Class. Realizing the great need of these for opening pantry doors, etc., I make this my parting gift with tears in my eyes.

I, Roy Dale Strong have nothing but a reserved seat in the Spratt Home and Senior social privileges but these I give gladly to "Ick" Boyce on the condition that South Alabama be again represented in Bryson. In case this is not true this privilege is to go to Mr. Theo Roberts.

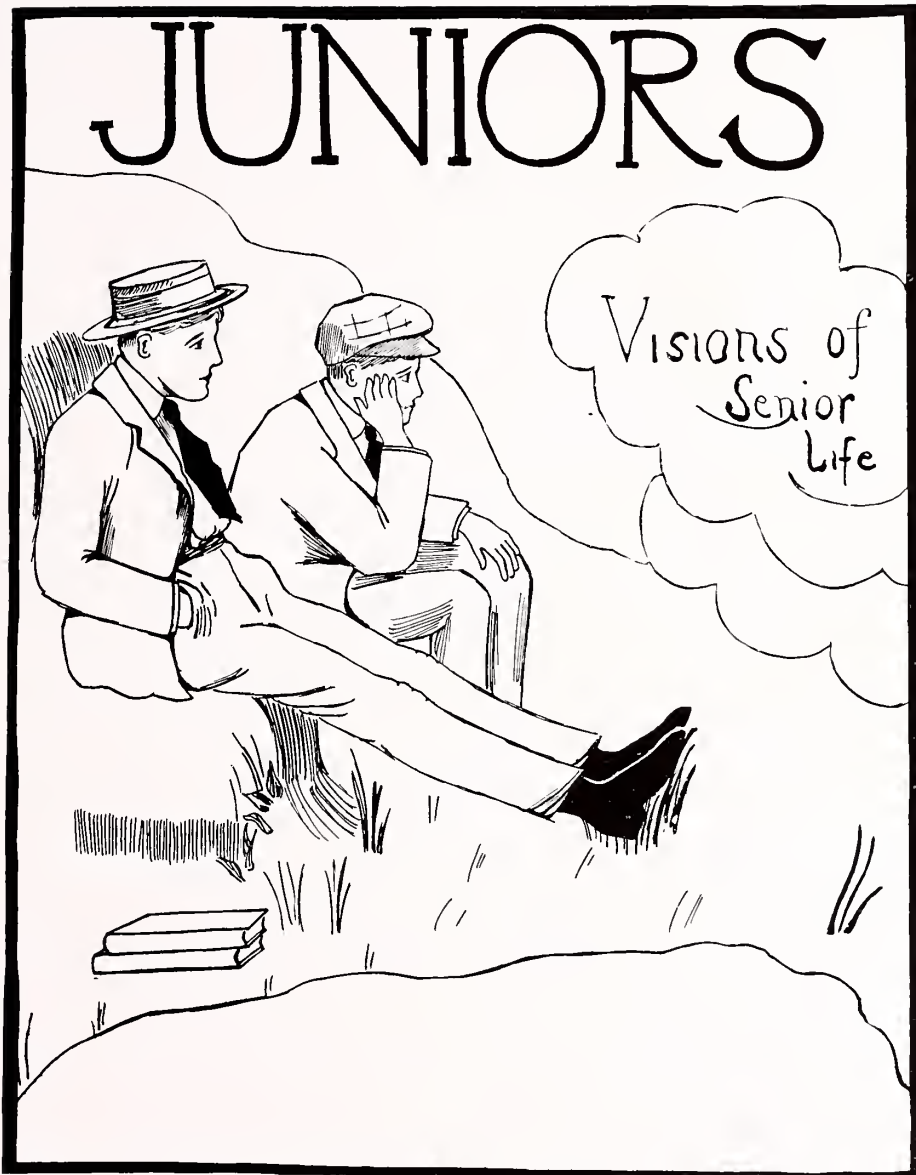

We, Grace Levisa Orr, William Oliver Faulkner, Marie Moos do hereby "pool" our bequests and leave the following articles: One "junk" stick, a never ending line of conversation etc., etc., etc., and everything else that the author has left out. We witness our hands and seals this the blank day of blank.

Witness:

Junior Class History

WHEN Bryson College first opened her doors to those wishing the opportunities and advantages she could give, there enrolled some forty students who were prepared to become members of what was destined to be the first Freshman Class of Bryson College. The Class soon resolved itself into two distinct divisions, which are noticeable not only in College life but also in civil life, the leaders and the followers. But by "some hook or crook" the greater part of us went forward, leaving behind those who were deficient. Of that Class there now remains ten of the original members, namely, Margarette Edwards, Jean Lindsay, Daisy Mae Wiley, Jesse McFerrin, Ross McGehee, Roy McGehee, William Hayes, Ralph Matthews, James Swiney and Joel Forrest.

Many changes were wrought in the class at the beginning of the Sophomore year. We noticed the dropping out of old familiar faces and the coming in of new ones who expressed their intentions of becoming a part of our class. When the census of our class was taken it was found that it numbered some thirty members. During this year our class supplied a reader, a declaimer, an orator, an essayist, and a debater, for the inter-society contests. As is usual, some dropped out and the Junior Class, at present numbers twenty-two.

Through the last three years of college life we have, as nearly as we have been able, lived up to our motto, "We learn to do by doing." Our class has aided in all our college activities. On this season's varsity basket-ball team are five Juniors. The class has also furnished the college with the best all round athlete, the best baseball player, the best basketball player (both boy and girl), the best singer, the prettiest girl, the most optimistic student, the most intellectual boy and the second most intellectual girl.

There is, no doubt, a great future for the Junior Class. We are hoping to make it not only one of the largest but also the best that the College will produce.

Sophomore Class History

IN THE fall of 1920, under very favorable conditions, the largest class in the history of Bryson College enrolled. Of the Southern States, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Mississippi are represented. Our class has the shortest man, the tallest man, and the biggest eater in College. Our group is represented in athletics as well as in literary work. There were seven of our men on the Varsity foot-ball team, five on the baseball squad, and two on the basketball team. One of the representatives to Blue Ridge was a member of the class.

We survived the ordeals of the final examinations and in 1921, a few members of the old class in addition to several new members, enrolled, determined to climb one round higher on the ladder of success. Part of the class was enticed away to show their prowess in athletics. Other members considered a commercial course necessary to their welfare and enrolled in some of the leading business colleges. The loss of these students was counterbalanced however by the addition of students, of exceptional literary ability and athletic skill, from other colleges.

As a result of the faculty emphasizing the word "unity" the class is one of the most compact in College. Within our group of sixteen is the best musician, the best all round college student, and the most handsome man. We are well represented in baseball and the basketball team of the co-eds. We will have the distinction of being the first class to graduate that started in the Junior Preparatory department.

The intentions of the class, though varied, are high. Among those who have already decided as to their future work we have an electrical engineer, a civil engineer, musician, a minister, teachers, and a lawyer.

His grandfather, John Breckenridge, was with Andrew Jackson at New Orleans the noted 8th of January, 1815. He received his A. B. degree from Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., in 1874 and his M. D. degree from St. Louis Medical College, St. Louis, Mo., in 1877. Dr. Gordon has practiced medicine for over twenty years. He has the distinction of being among the first men to use screen wire and to plant locust trees to reclaim worn out lands. Dr. Gordon has one son, Hon. Claude M. Gordon a prominent attorney of Franklin, Tenn.

Dr. Gordon is now a student in Bryson College, specializing in Hebrew under the instruction of the President.

Bryson's 75 years old student is one of its most enthusiastic.

The Religious Organizations in the College

RYSON College is an institution founded on Christian principles and it is an institution that strives ever to hold up before the student, the things in life that are really worth while. Perhaps the greatest factors in the College for the molding of character are the religious organizations.

We have in the College a live, growing, and working Y. M. C. A. and an efficient, striving Y. W. C. A. These two organizations take the lead in trying to improve the social and spiritual conditions on the campus and to give each student practical Christian training. Once each week the student may turn from classes and the routine of college work and engage in a few minutes of prayerful consideration of the vital things of life. Here they are urged to present their problems so that the organization may go into a committee of the whole for a prayerful solution to their problems. Certainly this is a work worthy of consideration.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. sent two young men and three young women to Blue Ridge last summer. One young man went as a missionary to Canada and two men to the Winona Conference at Winona Lake, Ind. In the Y. M. C. A. we have seven young men who are preparing for the ministry one of whom is a Student Volunteer. These young men have in a large measure been influenced in the choosing of their life work by the religious atmosphere of the college.

There is a growing demand for strong Christian leaders—men and women who are not afraid to put first things first in life. There is only one place in the College where these leaders can be trained and that is in the religious organizations.

ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL TEAM 1920-21

Review of Football Season

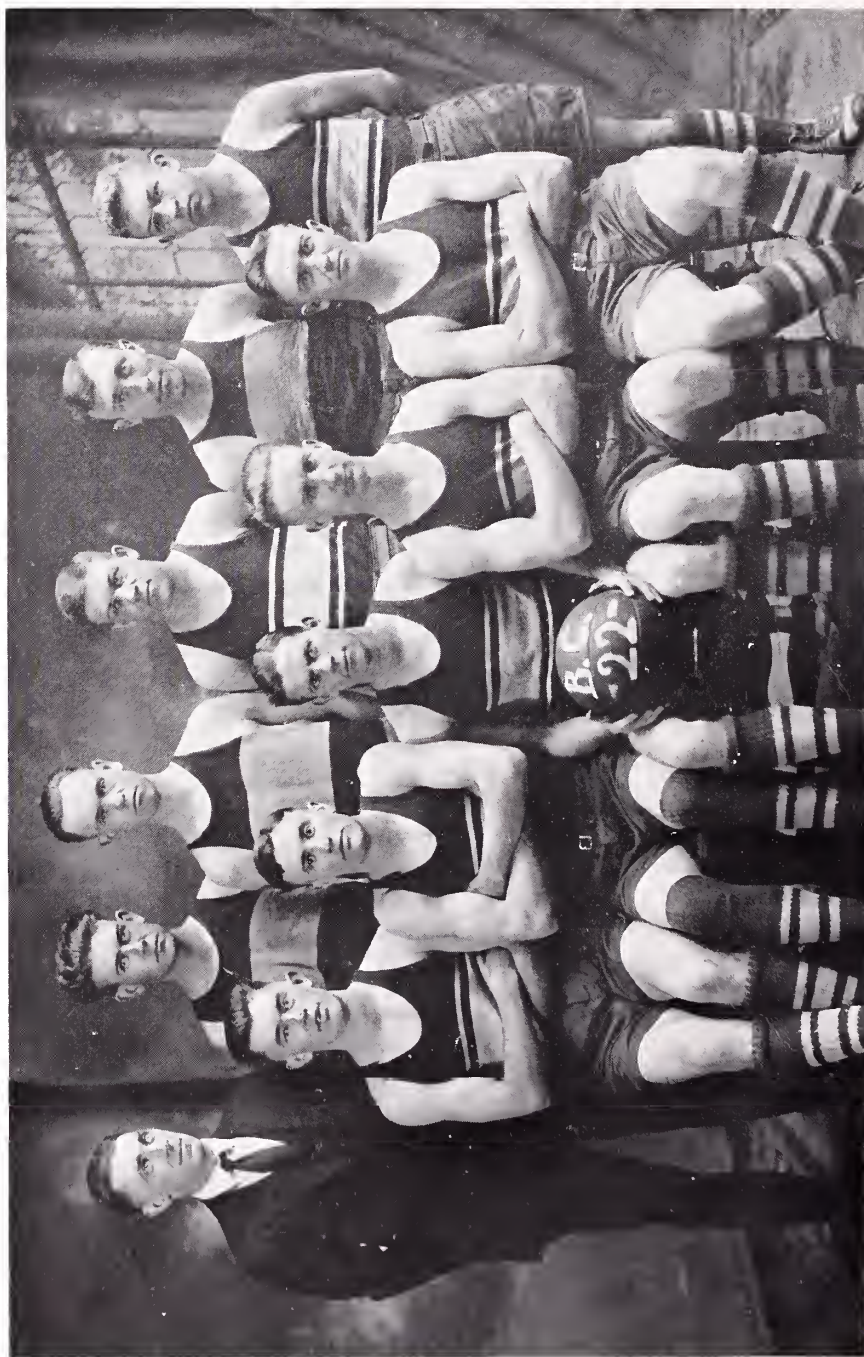

WITH the beginning of the fall term, Coach McDaniel sent through the Volunteer State a call for volunteers for his company of grid-iron warriors. Among those responding were the following letter men: Holman, Duckworth, Pigg and Moyers. Around this as a nucleus a snappy, light team was built and put into action. After the new men fell in the ranks, Coaches McDaniel, Bagley and Yearwood began their mill, and it was a likely bunch of athletes who chased the old pig-skin up and down the field on those September days. Considering the fact that the team was greatly handicapped by lack of experience and tonnage, the season was a very successful one. Through the untiring efforts of the coaches and the backing of the school and town, we were able to put a first class team on the field.

Our first game was with the University of Chattanooga. Enough. Next week we went to take a twist at the Sewanee Tiger's tail at the University of the South. Closely following this game came the charge of our light brigade against the "thin red line" of Alabama. Then hearing of a bunch of lawyers up at Cumberland University who wanted a try at us we embarked and fought our case well. Soon after the dust of the last battle had cleared away, St. Bernard College came and gave us a game which was an easy victory for us. It was in this game that the faithful scrubs got a chance to display their ability at football. Our Presbyterian cousins over at Southwestern Presbyterian University wanted to settle a little dispute as to who had the best football team. We invited them over. They came, they saw, we conquered. Next Bethel College came down and we gave them local entertainment with a little football scrap. On Thanksgiving day our neighbors from Morgan came over and a wonderful game was played.

Though our first four games were lost by large scores our football season was a splendid success, full of exciting scenes and a credit to Bryson's fight and sportmanship.

THE LINE-UP OF 1921.

Centers: Moyers, Cunningham, Sawyers.
Guards: Pigg (Captain), Fewston, Matthews, Dyer, McGehee.
Tackles: Raby, Strong, Jennings, Blakely, Nelson, Norman.
Ends: Hicks, Holman, Tinkler, Roberts, Simpson, Bunn.
Half Backs: E. Faulkner, O. Faulkner, Turpin, Wells, Smith.
Full Backs: Harwell, Green.
Quarter Backs: H. Faulkner, McIntosh, Duckworth.

BASKETBALL TEAM

BASKETBALL TEAM 1922

The Basket Ball Season

WHEN Coach McDaniel started basket ball practice he found awaiting his pleasue one of the finest bunches of court material that Bryson had ever boasted of. After bidding farewell to "Lord Chesterfield" and "Atlanta Cocktails", every one started heart and soul to put out a winning team for Bryson. The following combination was soon formed: Captain Tinkler, Faulkner, Boyce, Nelson and Roberts.

We opened the season with the fast University of Chattanooga five and lost 16-40. Then we took on Mercer University and again lost 28-12. These two defeats only served to get the team's "dander" up and they determined not to lose another game. So far they have kept this resolve and with only four more games on the schedule it looks as if we might go through the season with only these two defeats chalked up against us. On the first road trip we trimmed Peabody 33-16, Southwestern Presbyterian University 36-13, and Kentucky Normal 32-21. Coming back from this road trip we defeated St. Bernard 43-18 and Peabody again 35-12. Then we went on the road again for an invasion of Alabama. Our first victim was the 7th U. S. Cavalry unit at Harsell, Ala. We added them to our string of victories 26-19. Then giving St. Bernard a return game we again defeated them by a 30-23 score. Then coming back via Huntsville we licked the Y. M. C. A. five 52-26. The four remaining games of the season are: Morgan, Bethel, Morgan and S. P. U. These four games should prove easy victories for us and thus sustain our reputation as the best passing and best all round team that ever scampered over Bryson's Gym.

THE CO-ED BASKETBALL TEAM.

Too much credit cannot be given our girls for the fight and true sportmanship that they have shown during this basket ball season. With Captain Pickle at forward, Nelson and Smith alternating at the pivot position, Boyce and F. Smith at guards and Pressly at the other forward we have an aggregation second to none in the state.

The girls opened their season with Peabody College and like their brothers they lost the first game 33-15. Fresh from this defeat they took their revenge on Columbia Institute, defeating them 28-15. Then Alabama State Normal invaded our territory and went away with the spoils after a hard fought 10-12 battle. The girls again redeemed themselves by defeating Columbia Institute 22-20. Then going on the road they lost to Howard College 10-14. The following week Howard came to our campus and here the co-eds showed the results of some hard training and practice, by taking Howard's measure 16-4.

We know that no matter what may be the results of the remaining games we can say with one accord, "Well done, good and faithful co-eds."

BASE BALL TEAM

Review of Baseball Season

THE first blush of spring, when balmy days began to reach us and the old campus began to put on its coat of green; at the time when poets are supposed to go wild with ecstasy and young men's fancies are supposed to turn to loud socks and love, the whole campus began to talk and think of baseball. Coach McDaniel imbued with the spirit that was pervading the campus, marched his former basketeurs and pig-skin chasers down on the athletic field and began the task of converting them into a baseball team. We were blessed in having the following letter men back with us: Pigg, McDaniel, Moore, M. Smith, Moyers, Matthews, O. Faulkner. This was not all the material we had. Many promising freshmen had joined the ranks and it is true that some of them were super-saturated with chlorophyll, nevertheless through the work of Coach McDaniel this was all worked out. As the days became longer and warmer and brighter the team was whipped rapidly into shape and after sizing up the material and smoothing down the rough spots Coach "Mc" sent out a challenge to all comers.

The following is the schedule and result of games:

Bryson	6—Shelbyville	12
Bryson	5—Shelbyville	3
Bryson	13—U. Chattanooga	10
Bryson	4—Morgan	3
Bryson	6—Shelbyville	9
Bryson	12—Morgan	5
Bryson	8—Fayetteville	8
Bryson	2—Fitzgerald-Clarke	7
Bryson	6—Middle Tenn. Normal	7
Bryson	14—Fitzgerald-Clarke	4
Bryson	3—St. Bernard College	7.
Bryson	16—University South	3
Bryson	10—University South	11
Bryson	14—Wills	6
Bryson	10—Wills	2

Prospects were never brighter for a winning team during the 1922 season. Many letter men are back on the campus among them being Pigg, O. Faulkner, H. Faulkner, Moore, Tinkler, M. Smith, Harwell, Matthews and the midget second baseman McIntosh. With such good material and the confidence inspired by other successes it is only natural that we should expect the team this spring to be one of the best in this section.

Working to be a real girl of today. Indeed, these girls are seeing the necessity of the quotation, thus "Every human being has duties to be performed and therefore has need of cultivating the capacity for doing them, whether the sphere of action be the management of a household, the conduct of a profession, or the government of a nation." They are anxiously trying to fulfill the requirements of managing the household to its very best.

All hail to our own college!
O, Bryson here's to you!
Thy sons and daughters yield to thee
All homage and all praise,
Thy future we will make most bright,
Thy name we'll place on high;
And Bryson men will ever be
Loyal and true to thee.

Bryson, Bryson, all the time!
The blue and white forever wave!
With Bryson spirit in our hearts
We'll carve our way to fame.
Bryson Bears are always there;
Her students all are on the square.
So come and join us in our song.
For we are glad we belong
To old Bryson.

Jokes

CRACKS IN THE BRIDGE

*"Laugh and the world laughs with you,
Study and you study alone."*

Prof. Dobbins reading: "Two little worms were digging away in dead earnest."
"Boob" Orr: "Poor Earnest."

Prof Sloan: "Miss Pickle, what is H₂O?"
Miss Pickle: H to O is a part of the alphabet.

R. D. Strong was out in town for dinner. Mr. Galloway: "Mr. Strong will you please ask grace for us?"
Roy Dale: "Aw, come on let's eat. I don't have to ask her everything."

Prof. Dobbins: "Mr. Wells, what is Scott's best work?"
Wells: "Scott's Emulsion sir."

WE WONDER

Is Ruth White?	Did Percy Dyer?
Can Jelly Wright?	Is Buford Rich?
Has Annie Lou Pickle?	Does Humphrey Cheatham?
Is Roy Dale Strong?	Does Willie Hayes?
Where Pete Parks?	Is Joe Well(s)?
Has Thomas More?	Is Bill Rowan?
Has Boyce Nickles?	How much is Duckworth?

"Drake" Blakely: "Dad jim! My girl sure is a beauty."
"Tiny" Dyer: "Remember, my son that beauty is only skin deep."
"Drake": "Oh, that's all right, I'm no cannibal."

Prof. Halliday in Astronomy: "Which is the more important the sun or the moon?"
L. J. Wiley: "The moon 'cause it shines at night when it's needed the most."

"It's all off for the night," said Lucile as she wiped her face with a towel.

QUOTH THE FACULTY:

Prof. Sloan: "Beg pardon."
Dean Strong: "Let's give it as it is in the book."
Miss Pressly: "So glad you like it—so 'fraid you wouldn't."
Coach McDaniel: "Get off that dime."
Prof. Dobbins: "That is just wonderfully fine."
Miss Buchanan: "Well, so much for that."
Prof. Halliday: "Good" "Put it down."
Pres. Blakely: "Good morning. How are the home folks?"

Pauline Pressly at football game: "Hold 'em Harry, hold 'em. I know you can."

"Shorty" McIntosh cautiously: "Boys I've heard that there's something with a real kick to it around here somewhere."
"Ago" Simpson: "Don't get excited fellows. It's nothing but the College "linoleum".

Robert (dishwasher): "Mat, wha fo' you done name yo' cow United States?"
Mat (cook): "'Cause she's done gone dry."

CAMPUS ECHOES.

"Ain't it cute!"	"Where's the lesson?"
"You'll never know."	"The bell has rung."
"That's a hot 'un."	"Mornin' girls."
"Well, I can't get over that."	"Thelma Stewart. Telephone."
"You know you don't?"	"Gimme a match."
"Got any chewing gum."	"Last hash."

Roberts: "Say Snipes, what's the matter with your suit? It looks as if someone had been sleeping in it."
"Sunny" Smith grinning: "I'm not surprised. It's the one he wore to church."

"They don't look natural," said Dave as he rolled out two threes.

We have heard it remarked that Gus Moore does not dress so well during school days but that he always wears his new hat on his week end.

Snow again please. I didn't get your drift.

Pres. Blakely in chapel: "Now young people there is no short cut to success. To succeed you must start at the bottom and go up."
"Nellie" Nelson nervously: "Well there's no chance for me. I am going to be a well digger."

Business man asking about "Pep" Faulkner: "And is he steady?"
Prof. Dobbins: "Yes sir, he's as steady as anyone I know. In fact if he was any steadier, he would be motionless."

Sybil Brooks: "I move that we have this bowl of gold fish moved from the parlor table."
Forrest O'Daniel: "Why that Sybil?"
Sybil: "Because I am afraid that it will remind someone that there is more than one fish in the sea."

Prof. Strong in Bible Class: "Mr. Swiney, give us a running story of the healing of the lame man."
Swiney: "He didn't run till he was healed and then he jumped."

Willie Hayes: "Miss Buchanan does Italy have longer years than any other country?"
Miss Buchanan: "Certainly not Mr. Hayes. Where did you get that idea?"
Hayes: "Simply because in Italy every time one turns around he sees a dago."

Some things we would like to know:

If "Gus" Moore's Moose is a dear?
How Grace Orr is getting Strong?
Why Theo Roberts can't be fooled with candied yams?
Why Snipes like Pickle?
If Dave Tinklers motto is "O-live For-rest."
Why Daisys like the Sunnyside?
If Miss Carmichael's favorite game is Poker?
Why "Icky" Boyce's favorite letters are F-E?
Why "Rach" Nelson gets up so early in the morning?

We heard Joel Forrest remark the other day that he knew a girl that was so modest she wouldn't even do improper fractions.

A SPRATT HOUSE ROMANCE

He blushed a fiery red,
Her heart went pittypat;
She gently hung her head,
And looked down at the mat.

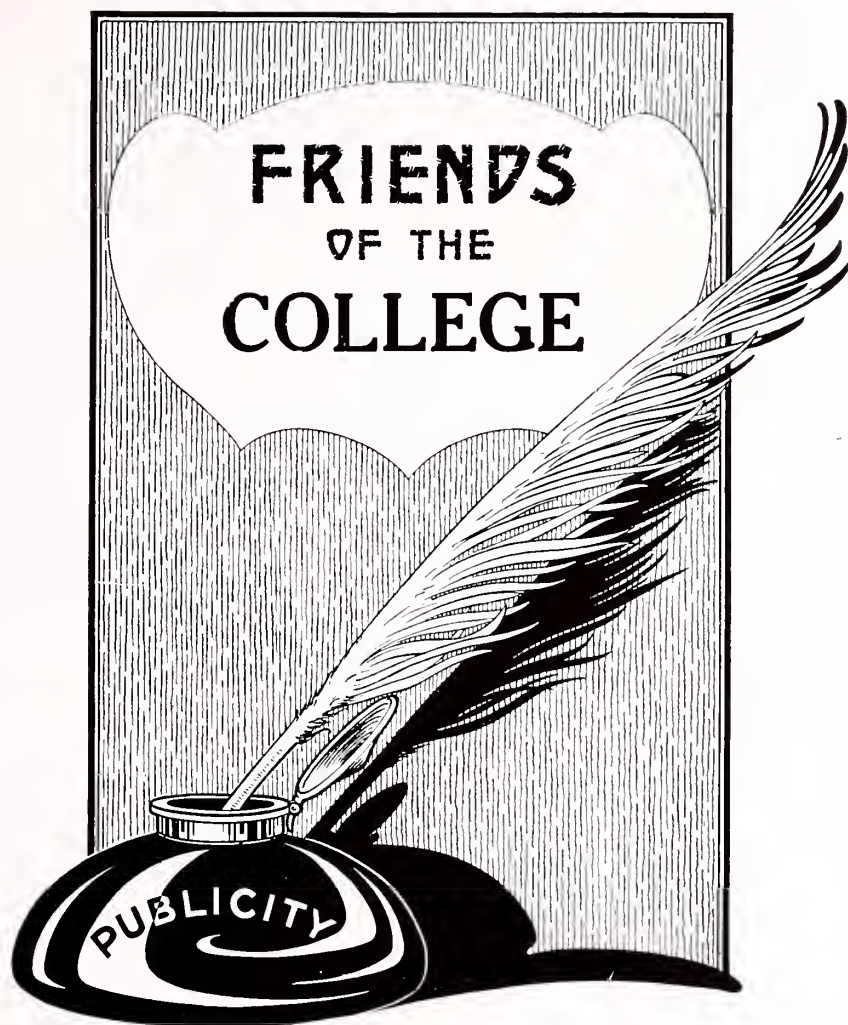

"They sure soak you here"; remarked Pigg as he paid for a Turkish bath.

The potatoes eyes were full of tears,
And the cabbage hung its head,
There was grief in the cellar that night,
For the mother of vinegar was dead.

Edd Boyce: "Are you going to town after dinner?"

"Tiny" Dyer: "No I thought I would eat at the shack."
